Q7: How will this impact on my studies at my local high school?

Selected participants will need to work with their own high schools to determine what the impact will be on their academic programs. Each student's academic program and progress is unique, and their high school will be best able to advise on a course of action. Students should be aware that it is possible they may have to spend an extra year in high school to complete the requirements for a New Brunswick graduation diploma. While participants will be required to fully and diligently participate in their schoolwork in Germany, it is important to remember that a year of studying abroad is an opportunity to grow as a person, to mature as a global citizenship, and to learn about the world in a way that is not possible in the traditional school setting.

The applications will be reviewed by an independent selection committee. Q10: Will my family have to host an international student in our home?

No, there is no requirement for your family to host an international student. However, if your family is interested in doing so, more information is available on our website at <https://aei-inc.ca/host-a-student-in-new-brunswick/>

Q11: In what part of Germany will I be living?

Placement of international students is the responsibility of the host country. There will be many high school students just like you from around the world who will be placed in welcoming homes and communities around Germany. Part of the excitement of the program is to discover an entirely new community and school, where you will be able to make new and lasting friendships, and explore the culture and natural beauty of a place you may never have heard of before

Q12: What activities might be part of my experience?

Each country, community, school and homestay family is unique, so it's impossible to know exactly what kinds of activities and outings you might take part in. If you are selected for this opportunity, your job will be to try new things and do your best to appreciate the many cultural, community, athletic and other experiences that your host family and your school will introduce you to. You'll find lots of great information about what it's like to spend a year in Germany from the YFU Germany website: <https://study.yfu.org/germany>.

Q13: How will this benefit me in the future?

There are many benefits to spending a year studying abroad, such as developing a new appreciation for a different culture, seeing the world through a different lens than the one you've grown up with, learning a new language, becoming more responsible, inquisitive and resilient in the face of personal challenges, coming to embrace diversity, becoming more accepting of different perspectives and opinions, and having time to think more fully about your future and what that might look like. Many students who have completed a study-abroad year like this have found they are more confident, they are better prepared to interact with others, and they are better able to make decisions about their future. However, the exact benefits are as varied and unique as you are as an individual. The best way to approach an opportunity like this is simply to embrace it, throw yourself into many new experiences, make lots of friends and have fun!

Q14: What will I be expected to do after the year away?

We would be pleased if you would help us promote this opportunity to other students who may be interested in a future study-abroad experience. Mostly, though, we would like you to use your new insights, attitudes and skills to champion diversity, to reach out to newcomers who may feel like you did when you embarked on your year away, to strive to be the best "you" that you can be as you plan your future life, and to take whatever action you can to make the world a better place.

Q15: I still have questions. How can I or my parent/guardian contact somebody for answers or help with the application process?

Please feel free to submit any questions or inquiries to aei@gnb.ca

GOOD LUCK TO ALL INTERESTED STUDENTS!
